

Genome Query

Genome Query Project

We're developing handy query language and web-based service for biologists to analyze human genomic data (hg19), including but not limited to nucleic sequence and annotated regions.

It currently supports different search queries and tends to support wide variety of statistical queries for genomic sequence analysis.